

HKTV Filed Application for Judicial Review
Against the Government's Decision on Free TV Licence

(Hong Kong, 6 Jan 2014) Hong Kong Television Network Limited ("HKTV") announced that, it has filed an application for leave to apply for judicial review in respect of the Government's decision in rejecting HKTV's application for a domestic free TV programme service licence.

The Government announced its decision to issue two new free TV licence on 15 October 2013, whereas the application submitted by HKTV was rejected. This decision was not in line with the prevailing broadcasting policy and therefore HKTV decided to file an application for leave to apply for judicial review. HKTV reiterates that it will continue to strive for justice in its quest for a free TV licence and to protect the interests of its employees, shareholders and the public.
